Isaiah Washington's response to Chris Rock's photo of himself being stopped by the police (again) has gotten him into some very hot water.

On Monday (March 30), Chris tweeted a photo with police lights behind him and the caption read, "Stopped by the cops again wish me luck."

Isaiah, who is no stranger to racial-profiling, offered Chris Rock a piece of advice – he probably now wishes he had sent via a DM.

I sold my $90,000.00 Mercedes G500 and bought 3 Prius's, because I got tired of being pulled over by Police. #Adapt @chrisrock

The floodgates opened on Isaiah as people questioned why he would tell Chris Rock to "adapt" to racial profiling. Isaiah stood firm in his stance and defended his tweet to a few of his fans and critics.

Robert.C (@RobertB081) - Apr 1
@Washington @chrisrock How would that stop them from pulling you over? It's their racism that leads them to pull you over not your car

Quvenzhané Wallis (@Quvenzhanewallis) - Apr 1
@Washington @chrisrock Damn, you handed them the win. Blacks don't have the right to drive a nice car.

I still like your work though.

Robert.C (@RobertB081) - Apr 1
@Washington @chrisrock Blacks driving beat up cars get stopped. Blacks walking down the street get stopped. It's never about the car.

Isaiah Washington (@IsaiahWashington) - Apr 1
@DaveDo @chrisrock No win to WS. Just living to fight another day fam.

Isaiah Washington (@IsaiahWashington) - Apr 1
@RobertB081 @chrisrock I'm sharing my perspective and aware of all you said. Beat up car vs $90K car equals a Prius perhaps?

And just like Raven Symoné, Isaiah isn't "black" either...he's a human being.

Brad J Howard, A.I.P (@TheBlackAcademy) - Apr 1
Fan... Fan... I hope u know that just because you change the car doesn't change perception of the Black man in it @Washington @chrisrock

Isaiah Washington (@IsaiahWashington) - Apr 1
@TheBlackAcademy @chrisrock I'm not Black. I'm a Human Being and I'm walking the Earth that way fam. isorynotsonly

Don Lemon reached out to Isaiah Washington and invited him to stop by "CNN Tonight" to clarify his tweet.

Isaiah attempted to clarify the message he was trying to convey with his tweet, while being rudely interrupted by Don Lemon.

I think a lot of people I know take issue with the hashtag 'adapt' thinking that I was implying white supremacy and racial profiling will stop if you are in a different car.

From my experience, police are about the business of policing.

I obviously have a slight advantage because I am a celebrity. During the day, I have an advantage because hopefully...they will recognize me. But, if they don't, at night, I'm vulnerable like everyone else.

But, I will say this...since I got out of my G500 and been driving a Prius for the last four years with windows that are tinted darker than the windows in my $90,000 vehicle...I have not been pulled over one time.
